The main aim of the session was to teach students about the upsides and downsides that women entrepreneurs in India experience, and to inspire them to become entrepreneurs too. The speaker talked about what the organization does to help women entrepreneurs in different areas and how it supports them.

The event started with a friendly welcome to the special guests by the college staff and students. Ms. Likitha, a student, greeted everyone and briefly talked about COWE & the speakers. Then Mr. G Dayakar Reddy, the Vice Principal, and Dr. E Madhusudhana Reddy, the Principal, spoke, welcoming the speakers and appreciating COWE's efforts for Women Empowerment. Afterwards, Mrs. Chetana Jain and Ms. Sri Nithya Karati began the session by talking about why women in entrepreneurship matter and the importance of support for them. They discussed the challenges, opportunities, and trends in helping women succeed in business. The session aimed to inspire women to take leadership roles in business and help the economy grow. They also shared stories of successful women entrepreneurs who overcame obstacles, which motivated the participants.

The program talked about different things, like why women starting businesses is important, stories of successful women, and tips for women who want to start their own businesses. They used numbers and real-life examples to show how businesses run by women help create jobs, come up with new ideas, and make communities better. The speakers talked about the problems that women who start businesses often have, like not being able to get money, people expecting them to act a certain way because they're women, and people treating them unfairly because they're women. They also talked about how groups like COWE help women who have businesses by connecting them with others who can help. They also said how having someone to help and working with others can make a big difference.

The session talked about how the government helps women who start businesses and told participants to use these chances. They showed real stories of people who worked hard, came up with new ideas, and didn't give up, which made their businesses successful. The event made more people know about the problems and chances that women who start businesses have and said that everyone needs to work together to make a business environment where everyone feels welcome and supported.

The session concluded with closing remarks, expressing gratitude to the COWE representatives for their valuable insights. Students were encouraged to explore entrepreneurship and were informed about upcoming events and resources related to the entrepreneurial ecosystem.

The audience actively participated in a question-and-answer session, seeking advice on specific challenges they faced in their entrepreneurial journeys. Mrs. Chetana Jain provided valuable insights and practical solutions. Feedback from students was overwhelmingly positive. Many expressed appreciation for the informative content and found the success stories to be particularly inspiring. Overall feedback of the program is excellent and active participation of students during the session was notable, and students were engaged throughout the session. The session by COWE, featuring Mrs. Chetana Jain and Ms. Sri Nithya Karati, proved to be an insightful and empowering experience. The discussion covered a range of topics pertinent to women in business, offering both inspiration and practical guidance. Participants left with a renewed sense of purpose and a better understanding of the resources available to support their entrepreneurial endeavors.

The awareness session on the Confederation of Women Entrepreneurs of India conducted by the IIE Cell successfully met its objective of inspiring and informing students about entrepreneurship, specifically within the context of women entrepreneurs. Beyond imparting knowledge, the session provided a platform for networking and potential future collaborations between students and COWE.

The IIE Cell remains committed to organizing similar events to nurture an entrepreneurial mindset among students and contribute to the growth of the entrepreneurial ecosystem within the institute. The session was concluded by the vote of thanks by Ms. Navya, student of III CSE B.
